

One day a year ago there was a man who owned a supermarket and this man had a problem with one of his neighbors and one day the neighbor's son came to buy some things so the supermarket owner took revenge and killed his son and after that the father came looking for his son and did not stop at killing his son and killing him and after a few days the police came to the supermarket and arrested the man and the supermarket was closed