

during this phase the nuclear envelope and nucleolus disappear. Distinct chromosomes become visible and are randomly arranged in the center of the cell. Around each centriole a number of microtubules radiate to make the aster.