

The project process involves sequential phases beginning with defining the Project Objective and Scope Identification to establish clear goals and boundaries, a Conceptual Study explores ideas, leading to the Front End Engineering Design (FEED) phase for technical feasibility, high-level estimates, and risk assessment.