

Many of these types of substances are amorphous or have significant amorphous content within them.