

Designers must be careful to take into account a wide array of legal and ethical considerations, Product liability can be a strong incentive for design improvements. Product liability is the responsibility of a manufacturer for any injuries or damages caused by a faulty product because of poor workmanship or design.