

Branding or corporate identity is the creation of an image and appearance by which the market can be recognized. After all, it affects consumer decisions such as making their decisions and preferences, loyalty, and credibility to the company in exchange for providing high-quality services and prices.