

Financial management refers to the process of planning, organizing, and controlling the use of funds within an organization.