

ABSTRACT The invasion of Russia on Ukraine on February 24, 2022, raised the global concern for world war III. During the war, the reports flooded across the globe via several social media channels such as Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, etc. With social media being the prominent platform to influence public psychology, another information warfare emerged in the digital domain.