

My love story faced two major obstacles: my parents refused to support my proposal due to a long-standing feud between our families, stemming from my father's past actions. Her parents, for the same reason, also rejected me. Despite these hurdles, I persisted in my attempts to win her hand. My efforts ultimately failed, leading me to despair. But a chance encounter with an old man offered a glimmer of hope, and today, my beloved and I are finally together.