The models of behavior and innovation that I have examined in this chapter are directly impacted by this effect. This paper also discusses neural networks (DNNs) and our learning and prediction models. In addition to better-managing clients, particularly when they grow, it's important to comprehend the state of the market and how new technologies (DNNs) can be integrated with conventional methods (AHP).