

– Building connections is important for happiness. Being close to others brings joy and helps with loneliness.