

Glycyrrhizia glabra is derived from the ancient Greek term glykos, meaning sweet, and rhiza, meaning root. It consists of dried, unpeeled, stolon and root which is a tall perennial herb, upto 2 m high found cultivated in Europe.