

It is easily spread when many people come into contact with each other either through where they live, work or go to school.