

Color, contrast, and light are indispensable elements in UI design. By carefully selecting colors, managing contrast levels, and incorporating light and shadow, designers can create interfaces that resonate with users, increase engagement, and promote usability.