

In most sports, men's and women's competitions are governed by the same rules and regulations.