

The table reveals correlation and covariance results between stock market and economic variables. GDP growth, inflation, and unemployment show a positive relationship, while covariance results indicate a similar direction.