

The list has to be complete so that any reader can trace or find the sources referred to avoid what previous generations of students have named an 'anthology of quotations' in essays, research, etc. The credits can include facts, ideas, opinions, images, etc. Plagiarism is also known as 'letter theft'. Students can even be expelled.