

One of the most challenging experiences in the past two years has been recovering from COVID-19. My symptoms were: heat, dizziness, lack of smell and taste, but I was eating as well as possible, taking some medications to strengthen my immunity more than before and to recover quickly. She was at a gathering with her family. It was a difficult and terrifying feeling. Feeling isolated and alone has never been so sweet. I got it through my mother.