

Hybrid energy solutions and effective water recycling systems are suggested as ways to address sustainability concerns, minimizing reliance on variable supplies.