

We report primary results from a large, multisite RCT with adolescents at high risk for suicide, comparing DBT with individual and group supportive therapy (IGST) designed to match DBT for nonspecific treatment factors.