

IP: Internet protocol is used to deliver data packets from the source host to the destination host on a network using IP addresses in data packet header