

The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock by T.S.Eliot is often called 'The first Modernist Poem', it describes a tragic figure which stands for Modern Man. The poem centres on the feelings and thoughts of the persona, J. Alfred Prufrock, as he walks to meet women for tea and considers a question he feels compelled to ask but he can't.