

There is an extremely necessary matter, which is the development of the electric battery industry in order to control these barriers. In addition, the large infrastructure for charging batteries related to electric vehicles represents another problem.