

This patient-centered approach can lead to greater satisfaction with the care received.