

1.Enhancing Efficiency: Streamlining the process of accessing and utilizing electronic health record (EHR) data for clinical research to improve the efficiency and speed of research studies.Improving Data Quality: Ensuring the accuracy, consistency, and completeness of EHR data by implementing standards and harmonization processes, thereby enhancing the reliability of research findings.Promote Collaboration: Fostering collaboration among healthcare providers, researchers, and other stakeholders to promote the sharing of EHR data for research purposes and encourage interdisciplinary research initiatives.This can help researchers identify eligible participants more effectively and efficiently.2.3.4.5.