

Free cash flow (FCF) refers to the amount of cash a company generates after accounting for capital expenditures such as equipment or buildings needed to maintain or expand its asset base. It represents the cash that a company is able to generate from its operations, available for distribution to shareholders, debt repayment, or reinvestment in the business.