

This picture reflects a common reality in today's society, where the phone has become an important part of our daily life, and it can even cause stress if someone doesn't have it. The picture also highlights the isolation caused by too much technology, where people are physically close but emotionally and socially distant because they are focused on their phones, leading to weaker real communication between them.