

1.1 Introduction Love and war are two contrasting yet interconnected themes that have been explored in literature for centuries. Both are powerful forces that have the ability to shape human emotions and actions.