

Consciousness refers "knowing" ongoing experiences occurring both internally and in the world around us. In general, people monitor environment (internal and external) but also when we seek to control and our environment. monitoring ourselves and our environment so that percepts, memories, and thoughts are represented in awareness 25 controlling ourselves and our environment so that we are able to initiate and terminate behavioral and cognitive activities