

Having the role of class president has provided me with a distinct viewpoint on the significance of friendship within the school setting.