

It is essential to go beyond generalizations and respect each individual's unique language preferences.