

Accepting gifts from pharmaceutical salespeople in exchange for recommending specific products compromises the integrity of patient education.