

liquid medium used for the cultivation of fastidious and nonfastidious microorganisms, including aerobic and anaerobic bacteria, from clinical specimens, food and environmental samples.