

business ethics has three levels which are individual, organizational and macro. ethics is defined as a systematic reflection on behavior's that are in line with social norms and values.