

The crime of bribery in Law 06-01 relating to preventing and combating corruption: 1- Bribery in the public sector: The crime of bribery is considered one of the most important manifestations of corruption and one of the most serious crimes committed. Committed by a public employee, without prejudice to the integrity and trust entrusted to him, in order to participate in public facilities operate honestly to perform their various functions regularly, and therefore bribery is the case in which an employee or person charged with a public service requests or accepts, personally or to others, a gift, benefit, or promise. Anything, performing an act of his job, abstaining from it, or breaching his job duties.¹⁹ According to this law, the perpetrator of this crime shall be punished by imprisonment from two (02) to ten (10) years and a fine from 200,000 DZD to 1,000,000 DZD.²⁰ 2-the crime of bribery in the private sector: Every person who promises or promises is considered to have committed bribery in the private sector. Offering or granting, directly or indirectly, an undue advantage to any person managing an affiliated entity in the private sector, or works for it in any capacity, whether for the benefit of the person himself or for the benefit of a person. Another, in order to perform an action or refrain from performing an action, which constitutes a breach of his duties. The perpetrator of this crime shall be punished by imprisonment from six (06) months to five (05) years and a fine of 50,000 DZD to 500,000 DZD.