

The individual possesses a strong technical background, having studied occupational health, system software management, and operating systems installation. Their skills extend to device security management and providing remote help desk support.