

The Uruguayan Air Force flight, with 45 passengers on board, crashed in the mountains. Stranded in the frozen wilderness with minimal supplies, the group faced an unimaginable ordeal. After 72 days and several failed attempts to call for help, the survivors were finally rescued and in order to survive, they resorted to eating the flesh of their dead comrades.