

A mating system describes how an animal society is structured in terms of sexual reproduction and (sometimes) pair bond behavior. Perhaps males have multiple female partners, or perhaps the reverse is true.