

In the long run, the country will achieve a higher level of economic growth, sustainability as well as continuously increasing the standards of living of its citizens. The government of the country must take the first Initiative and they can use public policies as a strategic tool for achieving contemporary economic, People on this earth are suffering from intellectual incapability. however, nations human capital development policy should be supporting to reinforced national production level and at the same time countries, human capital development policy should be matched with the national economic policy.