

Once upon a time, long ago, there were several heroes who loved football. Then one of the players, named Jinni Al-Kalimat (The Genie of Words), stood up and joined him in scolding the team. Their captain Al-Ward was also discouraged, but he didn't show it -- he kept cheering them on. Still, they couldn't recover. Their captain was very arrogant; his name was X Hunter, and their team was called Anmos. At that moment, Mohabat Zain Al-Wali got angry. He came to the school's club furious and shouted, "Do you really want to reach the World Cup while being lazy like this? You're not serious at all!" From the very first minute, Team Anmos scored a goal. But suddenly, Captain X Hunter hit him harshly, and he fell to the ground. Then Doaawi Al-Damila ran to help him, but she was almost alone because the rest of the team had lost hope. As she ran, X Hunter blocked her way. Their dream was to win the World Cup, and their team was called The Eagles. They all studied together in a high school named Hope High School. They were part of the school's team, but they were lazy and kept losing every match. The Eagles felt hopeless.