

You and I are like the thirty-first of December and the first of January, but we have a year between us