

This is about the motivation or reasons for such research. This research will enrich the curriculum and contribute to the knowledge body related to sustainable finance, one of today's key areas of interest in modern business strategy and policy development. In this regard, such understanding of the barriers carries value both for purely academic and practically relevant purposes within a master's Program oriented towards business management and sustainability practices.