

Some people use computers at work and study, but some use computers in entertainment to download movies and games and access social networking sites.