

Many transportation agencies see that meeting standards with today's challenges is unsustainable; thus, they are emphasizing improvement in overall transportation system performance.