

Sperm require a nourishing fluid to survive long enough to fertilize an egg. Semen refers to the fluid that contains sperm, the nourishment, and other fluids from the male reproductive glands.