

Its importance and benefits to all, but farmers and those interested in agriculture face many problems including soil quality, weather, water scheduling and others and one of the most prominent problems are no expertise to use modern techniques in agriculture because there are few applications that help them to provide all their requirements and save time and effort.