

It includes statements to gauge respondents' opinions on water quantity, supply regularity, accessibility, waiting times, and water quality. It also assesses respondents' concerns regarding potential health effects associated with water use.