

This chapter primarily focuses on the proper implementation of the system, including integrating all necessary components that support the system objectives, such as user authentication, browsing food carts, ordering food items, managing favorites, and using the AI chatbot for assistance. Different testing techniques are applied to verify that each module works as expected and that the system provides a reliable user experience.