

1. Possibility of creating new solid substances through mixing solids (powders and granules) and/or liquids.