

The statement I provided is common financial advice that encourages individuals to focus not only on increasing their income but also on saving and managing their money wisely.